They who in Him believing reſt,
Shall, till the laſt and gen'ral Doom,
Sleep from their Pains and Toils releas'd;
And riſe exulting from the Tomb.

3

Then ſhall their Souls and Bodies meet,
When the Archangel's Trump ſhall ſound,
And Saints with joy each other greet,
In endleſs Bliſs with Glory crown'd.

4

Together ſhall they hail their King,
And thus in Songs of Triumph cry
O Death! where is thy dreaded Sting?
And where, O Grave! thy Victory

5

To ſhare with Them the heav'nly Prize,
O let us join in holy Strife;
That when to meet our Judge we riſe,
His Croſs may be our Tree of Life.

The Tongues, intended to defeat
Th'aſpiring Builders' vain Device,
(Who proudly thought to ſtorm its Seat)
To us reſtor'd loſt Paradiſe.
Chriſt, to retrieve the fatal Loſs,
Did Adam's Guilt by Death atone:
He nail'd our Sins unto his Croſs,
Then re-aſcended to his Throne.

3

That his Diſciples ſhould not mourn,
But wait in Hope their Lord to meet,
To comfort them 'till his Return,
He ſent the promis'd*Paraclete.
By Him the fix'd Decrees of God
In Types by Iſrael's Sons beheld
(Who ſaw his Glory through a Cloud)
To Jews and Gentiles ſtand reveal'd.

4

O Holy Ghoſt! into us pour
Thy Light, that to his Throne we may,
Above the Reach of Babel's Tow'r
By Jacob's Ladder find the Way.
To guide us to that Seat of Bliſs,
His Viſion be our midnight Dream
Till there we ſee him as he is,
Jehovah's Praiſe our daily Theme.
